Executive Summary

SUN Youth Advocacy (SYA) is a youth development program that provides social emotional and academic supports. When youth feel safe, have a sense of belonging, and their culture and choices are honored, they achieve better outcomes. As one Youth Advocate describes, "we are working to disrupt the 'falling behind' narrative and to ensure that student needs and relationship come first". The program prioritizes students who face the most barriers in education: those living in poverty, students of color, immigrants, and refugees. Last year the youth served in SYA spoke over 33 different languages at home, and 97% identified as Black, Indigenous, and Youth of Color.

Program Summary

ISSUE: For too many children, income levels and the color of their skin impact what educational opportunities they have. Multnomah County has low educational attainment rates and poorer health outcomes. At the same time, the County also has high rates of unemployment and hunger. Despite making progress, Oregon is still below the national average of graduation rates. Significant disparities exist for students of color in both Multnomah County and Oregon overall - a gap that is only growing due to COVID-19. By providing services to meet basic needs, youth are more able to focus on school. SYA also supplies caregivers with the resources they need to support their child's educational success.

PROGRAM GOAL: SYA's goals are to increase student sense of safety, belonging and positive cultural identity. Each of these are known to increase school attendance, credit attainment, and graduation for all students. Research shows having a positive relationship with a supportive adult increases graduation rates. This is especially true for students of color, who may not have people who reflect their culture and identity in the school building. SYA also provides additional opportunities for students to learn outside of the classroom. This is another promising practice for reducing the achievement gap.

PROGRAM ACTIVITY: Youth Advocates build strong relationships with youth, their families, and schools. These relationships are culturally-grounded and use strengths-based approaches. For students, advocates focus on the key areas of social emotional support, wrap-around services, and academic help. Students receive help identifying, working toward, and accomplishing their personal and academic goals. SYA also provides culturally-specific enrichment activities, homework help, and peer support time. For families, advocates can refer them to services, assist with basic needs, and help families navigate systems of care.
