Executive Summary

The Community Healing Initiative (CHI) supports community-based, culturally, and gender-specific prevention services to Asian and Native American young people and their families at highest risk of gang membership, and intervention services to African American and Latino young people and their families who are already involved with the juvenile justice system.

Program Summary

Approximately 193 young people and their families will be served. It is expected that 50% of youth served increase their academic achievement, and avoid or reduce subsequent juvenile justice system involvement.

In FY13 approximately 112 Asian and Native American families received prevention services and 66 African American and Latino families on supervision with the juvenile division received intervention services. Referrals are managed directly by the Department of Community Justice.

CHI is a proven best practice successful in intervening with these young people and families. By utilizing a specific, proven best practice model that provides intensive family-focused support and intervention, services are culturally and gender specific, as well as tailored to individual client needs. Services include:

Mental health assessment and addictions treatment; school re-entry and retention; pro-social skill building activities; employment readiness and placement; basic needs; case management; linkage to support services; and flexible client service funds. Monthly system/joint case staffing meetings ensure seamless referrals between the juvenile justice system and community-based providers.

Intensive family support and intervention has been proven effective in successfully reducing or eliminating gang-related behaviors. OSU research indicates that 20% of youth offenders commit 80% of juvenile offenses, and that most of this 20% are "early bloomers" who committed crimes before the age of 15. CHI prioritizes this specific population in relationship to gang involvement, youth violence, and juvenile delinquency.
