MULTNOMAH COUNTY

Located in northwestern Oregon at the confluence of the Columbia and Willamette Rivers, Multnomah County is at the heart of one of the most livable areas in the United States.

The County offers natural splendor and urban amenities alike: it is home to the scenic wonders of the Columbia River Gorge and the western slopes of picturesque Mt. Hood, as well as to the urban sophistication of Portland, Oregon's largest city. The City itself boasts 10,000 acres of park land in 206 locations (including the largest forested wilderness park within an American city), as well as top flight ballet, symphony, and theater companies. In addition, sports enthusiasts can choose from the NBA Portland Trail Blazers, the Portland Winter Hawks of the Western Hockey League, and the Portland Beavers professional baseball team.

The County's population has grown substantially in recent years to more than 660,000. (The population of the entire metro area is over 2 million.)

MULTNOMAH COUNTY GOVERNMENT

The County is governed by a Board of County Commissioners, consisting of four non-partisan members elected from designated districts, and the Board Chair, who is elected at large. The Chair also provides executive direction as the County's CEO.

The County employs approximately 5,000 regular employees providing diverse services to the community, including libraries; social services such as senior services, alcohol and drug treatment, disability services, and mental health; public safety such as jail management, district attorney, parole and probation, and law enforcement for unincorporated areas; animal services; land use planning; transportation and bridge maintenance; and assessment and taxation services.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY IN THE COUNTY

ENVIRONMENT

The Information Technology division consists of approximately 170 full-time employees. Our customer base includes County staff located in approximately 90 buildings throughout the Portland Metro area. In addition, we provide services and partner with many external government agencies, application service providers, non-profit service providers, and others.

Our environment includes approximately 400 servers running Microsoft Windows, UNIX, and Linux, primarily located in a central data center. IT supports approximately 700 business applications throughout the County, as well as 8,000 voice/fax lines and multiple call centers. Our 6,000 desktops are a mix of laptops, Windows desktops, and thin clients. Our mobility services continue to expand with remote connectivity and wireless devices.

Most IT staff are in one of three locations:
SW 4th and Oak (Lincoln Building); 47th and E. Burnside (Kelly Building); and SE Hawthorne and Grand (Multnomah Building).

IT PRIORITIES

01. Maintain secure and reliable IT services

- › Server hosting
- › Data center operations
- › Network management
- › Help Desk services
- › Telecommunications
- › Desktop services
- › Database design and administration
- › Business applications
(packaged software implementation and support, software development, and maintenance)
- › IT security and risk management
- › IT planning and budgeting
- › IT administration and support

02. Provide new capabilities to Customers

IT priorities are governed by the IT Advisory Board, a cross-departmental committee which allocates the IT Innovation Fund to the projects deemed to provide the highest business value to Multnomah County. IT delivers new technology capabilities required by the approved projects.

03. Transform IT

Most IT services are centralized in a single organization under the County Chair. Our internal work units include Infrastructure Services, Applications Services, Customer Advocacy, and Planning and Administration.

Our focus on IT transformation includes the implementation of project and portfolio management to mature processes in demand management, project management, resource management and application portfolio management; performance management; and ITIL service management. This is a very exciting time in County IT with many opportunities for staff to further develop professionally.
