If you have to evacuate, take your pets with you. However, it is important to understand that animals may not be allowed in a public emergency shelter. Below, list options for pet friendly lodging (hotels or motels) and long-term boarding options. Long-term boarding could include veterinarians, boarding kennels, animal shelters, or even friends and family.

Just like their owners, pets will need and emergency kit with enough food and water for at least 72 hours after an emergency. Food and water stored for the kit should be replaced every six months and kept in a container that is easy to access. Here are some other items to keep in your pet's emergency kit:

○ Pet first-aid kit ○ Disposable litter trays and litter ○ Pet shampoo ○ Feeding dishes ○ Extra harness and leash ○ Blanket ○ Pet toys
