Executive Summary

The Joint Office of Homeless Services (JOHS) expansion of emergency shelter capacity has included the provision of a range of shelter options available to equitably meet the diverse needs of people experiencing homelessness. Alternative shelters, including village style shelters, are supported through this program offer. These alternative shelters differ in appearance from traditional facility based shelters, but they provide the same access to basic safety and hygiene services, and to the support services needed to transition from shelter to permanent housing.

Program Summary

With just over half the population identified in the 2019 Point-in-Time Count (PIT) as unsheltered, and waiting lists for shelters still very long, it is essential to continue to support the community's existing emergency shelter capacity. All shelters, regardless of size and configuration, must provide trauma-informed, racially equitable, reduced barriers, and culturally responsive or specific programming that emphasizes meeting participants' immediate need for basic health and safety.

Alternative shelters represent a comparatively small, but important and growing component of that capacity. Alternative shelters provide safety off the streets and critical transition services to people who are not able to access or may not thrive in traditional shelter environments.

This program offer provides essential operating support for the Kenton Women's Village, the innovative transitional living community for women, most of whom have experienced long-term homelessness and face multiple barriers to accessing permanent housing. This community-supported alternative shelter has proven highly effective at helping women transition back into permanent housing.

In addition, the program offer funds operations at St. John's Village, an adult alternative shelter program with 19 sleeping pods, prioritized to people living in the North Portland area, as well as support services at Dignity Village, a long-standing village-style shelter program in Multnomah County that shelters approximately 60 people per night.
