Executive Summary

The Pretrial Services Program (PSP) performs functions necessary for public safety and the effective operation of the local justice system. PSP operates under Oregon Revised Statutes (ORS), conducting release interviews and assessments to determine the release eligibility of arrested defendants, and providing pretrial supervision for all defendants who are referred and released. PSP utilizes criteria established by statute and a validated risk assessment in these investigations.

Program Summary

The primary mission of PSP is to evaluate the risk of releasing defendants prior to trial, supervise defendants in the community and ensure that defendants attend court hearings. When a defendant is referred by the Court to PSP for review, PSP staff use evidence-based criteria during their investigation to determine whether or not a defendant is likely to pose a safety risk or is likely to attend subsequent court hearings. The results of the investigation are presented back to the Court.

During 2013, 2,876 defendants were supervised and 1,841 investigated by PSP. The defendants were maintained in the community instead of occupying scarce and expensive jail beds.

When a defendant is released under PSP supervision, the assigned case manager monitors the defendant's behavior and actions through home, community and office visits, telephone contacts and in some instances electronic and Global Positioning Software (GPS). Under PSP, defendants are afforded the opportunity to maintain employment and/or school attendance, continue with health-related services (drug and alcohol counseling, mental health treatment) and reside in the community pending the resolution of their court matters.

Based on data compiled by the Bureau of Justice Statistics, the reoffense and failure to appear (FTA) rates for PSP clients are substantially lower than similar programs in other cities (Cohen and Reaves 2007). In FY 2013, less than two percent of felony defendants were arrested for another felony offense while under PSP supervision. In addition, during the first six months of FY 2013, 85 percent of felony defendants appeared for their court dates.
