Executive Summary

The Future Generations Collaborative (FGC) is a coalition among American Indian and Alaska Native community members, Native-serving organizations, and government agencies to increase healthy pregnancies and healthy births and strengthen families in American Indian and Alaska Native communities.

Program Summary

Research shows the conditions of early life have a profound impact on long-term health and stability. In Multnomah County, one in five births to American Indian and Alaska Native women results in a poor birth outcome. The historical trauma experienced by Native people has set the stage for poor birth outcomes and associated long-term health outcomes, and has hindered partnerships between Native communities and government agencies. The Future Generations Collaborative (FGC) is a culturally specific effort to reduce serious health inequities experienced by Native communities, especially birth outcomes related to Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorders.

The FGC has adopted a trauma-informed collaborative process that emphasizes partnership among community members, Native-serving organizations, and government agencies. This community-led effort aims to heal the root causes of health inequities experienced by Native communities. Public health and county government's commitment to this community-led partnership and healing process makes FGC unique. The project consists of four Phases. Phase 1: Initial Planning, Partner Recruitment, and Relationship Building; Phase 2: Partnership Building and Community Engagement; Phase 3: Action Planning; and Phase 4: Organizing Community Commitments. Phases 2-4 were funded by the Northwest Health Foundation through a grant focusing on Community Capacity Building. The project is currently in Phase 3. Since its start in 2011, the FGC has achieved several successes, including securing funding from Health Share of Oregon, preparing for and hosting the Gathering of Native Americans (GONA) in January 2014, and being accepted into the National Leadership Academy for the Public's Health, a training academy funded by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The work of the FGC aligns with all three goals of the first strategic priority of the Health Department's Strategic Plan, to improve health outcomes and health equity.
