Executive Summary

The rate of mental illness among those incarcerated is two to three times higher than among the general population (Roskes and Feldman 1999). These offenders eventually leave prison or jail and are then supervised in the community, bringing with them a variety of mental health and chronic medical issues. The Department of Community Justice (DCJ) provides funding for services that assist Parole/Probation Officers (PPO) in their work with about 300 adult mentally ill offenders annually.

Program Summary

Mental Health Services (MHS) helps PPOs access necessary resources for offenders with severe and persistent mental illness. This work is essential for stabilizing and decreasing recidivism rates for this specific population and is always coordinated with other community-based treatment.

MHS provides the following contracted services:

- 1) Provide outpatient mental health care coordination and psychiatric medication services to adult offenders with severe mental illness, with or without a substance abuse disorder, who are under the supervision of DCJ.
- 2) Provide mental health assessments, evaluations, diagnoses, and care plans, including referrals to other needed community services.
- 3) Conduct coordinated case planning with other agencies or individuals involved with the clients and/or their families.

This program supports public safety by providing a continuum of social services to high and medium risk offenders who require assistance in accessing services. Without these services, many of these offenders would remain unstable and would likely return to jail on supervision violations and/or new criminal charges.
