Executive Summary

Providing adults with alcohol and substance abuse treatment along with wraparound services is an effective strategy to reduce re-offense, especially for individuals classified as high risk. This includes intensive alcohol and substance abuse outpatient treatment, which addresses major criminogenic risk factors and are a necessary correctional intervention for reducing recidivism. Other services such as vocational assistance, mentoring, and housing are also essential in promoting client success.

Program Description

This program offer supports a recovery system of care which includes comprehensive recovery support, including stable and substance free housing, peer mentors, medication assisted treatment, and vocational assistance. A recovery system of care better supports long-term behavior change than treatment alone. Alcohol and substance abuse treatment services are provided through contracts with non-profit providers who are also equipped to respond to culturally-specific needs and address criminogenic risk factors. Several providers offer culturally and gender responsive services.

Most clinical services previously supported by the Department of Community Justice's (DCJ) budget can now be reimbursed by insurance due to the expansion of Medicaid and increased access to private insurance. DCJ will continue to provide funding for clinical services for individuals eligible for treatment who do not have insurance. In addition, funding is provided to support treatment interventions for criminogenic risk factors such as antisocial thoughts, attitudes, antisocial peers, impulsivity, poor problem solving skills and anger management. Effective interventions for adults under supervision should integrate addictions treatment with cognitive behavioral strategies to address criminogenic factors. Without treatment, individuals are more likely to re-offend and/or to occupy costly jail beds.
