Executive Summary

Multnomah County Department of Community Justice (DCJ) High Risk Generic Supervision has been nationally recognized for the use of evidence-based strategies, including the development of a system to identify criminogenic risk factors affiliated with High Risk justice-involved adults. Multnomah County receives a large number of high risk individuals and is still able to produce lower recidivism rates for these cases. The Reduced Supervision model takes care not to bring justice-involved adults who are low risk deeper into the criminal justice system, provides minimal supervision, and encourages increased self-sufficiency.

Program Summary

In 2020, reorganization of our unit structure will lead to this offer including all justice-involved adults supervised at the DCJ West campus. Thus this offer will increase significantly in size, as it changes to include justice-involved adults from the former Reduced Supervision Team (RST) unit.

High risk supervision uses evidence-based strategies to supervise high-risk individuals on probation and parole. DCJ utilizes the Level of Service/Case Management Inventory (LS/CMI), the Women’s Risk Need Assessment (WRNA) and the Public Safety Checklist (PSC) assessment tools to measure the risks and needs of adults. The LS/CMI is also a fully functioning case management tool that provides a summary of the individual’s static and dynamic criminogenic risk and need factors, as well as special responsivity considerations to be deployed during supervision. The WRNA is a gender responsive risk assessment created with justice-involved women’s social and psychological needs in mind. The PSC provides a quick, objective, validated assessment of the probability an individual will be re-convicted of a felony or rearrested for a person or property offense based on specific characteristics.

DCJ continues to use Effective Practices in Community Supervision (EPICS), an evidence-based case management model. With EPICS, parole-probation officers (PPO) follow a structured approach to their interactions with their clients, allowing PPOs to effectively target the criminogenic needs using cognitive behavioral interventions for high risk individuals. PPOs reinforce law-abiding behavior and link clients to treatment, employment and other services. Supervision is conducted through: a) home and office visits; b) contacts with family; c) correspondence with community members and treatment providers; and d) collaboration with law enforcement agencies.
