Executive Summary

High risk African American men and women returning to their communities from prison and placed on supervision are over represented in the criminal justice system. DCJ is committed to addressing systemic racism that creates unnecessary barriers for black community members. Lack of education, employment experience, and supportive housing coupled with returning to communities that may present some of the same anti-social influences have a negative impact on successful re-entry into the community.

Program Summary

This program addresses the needs of African American men and women and gang involved adults. The Department of Community Justice (DCJ) works with culturally responsive providers who have demonstrated effectiveness in improving outcomes for African American justice-involved men and women in the areas of education, employment, culturally responsive cognitive behavioral therapy and family stability. This target population is under supervision with (DCJ) Adult Services Division African American Program and Gang Unit. Providers engage in cognitive behavior therapy, peer mentoring, parenting, employment, and educational services designed to change the way people think and behave.

Cognitive interventions are a systematic approach that seeks to overcome difficulties by identifying and changing dysfunctional thinking, behavior and emotional responses. This involves helping individuals develop skills for modifying beliefs, identifying distorted thinking, relating to others in different ways, and changing behaviors. The provider utilizes mentors to assist clients with navigating complex systems such as education and employment. Mentoring helps adults establish stable lives by reducing the chaos brought about by poverty, homelessness, underemployment, as well as the effects of incarceration. Gang members have shown an increased willingness to participate in programs that use mentors that have had similar life experiences as their own. The relationship that develops between the mentor and the gang member is a key factor for engaging with pro-social resources, relationships and behavior change.

Individuals assigned to this program are classified as high risk based on their scores by the Public Safety Checklist and the LSCMI. They are also identified prior to being released from prison as gang members based on an established set of criteria. Cognitive interventions follow the Habilitation Empowerment Accountability Therapy (HEAT) curriculum, a culturally responsive cognitive behavioral intervention program designed to reflect and address the unique experiences and needs of participants, respectively.
