Executive Summary

The Community Monitoring Program (CMP) provides supervision and support while reserving the use of costly detention bed spaces for youth who pose a significant and immediate threat to public safety. Research published by the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) shows that detaining youth, who can otherwise be safely maintained in the community, makes it more likely they will re-offend.

Program Description

This program serves both pre-adjudicated and post-adjudicated youth to ensure court compliance. CMP allows qualified youth to remain at home or in community placements while awaiting court processing, as well as post-adjudicated youth who are serving a sanction as part of their probation. CMP consists of four levels of supervision. All youth start out on the highest level and may be reduced in their level of supervision based on their performance.

While on CMP, each youth is required to make several daily phone calls to the CMP office for mandatory check-ins. CMP staff conduct face-to-face visits at home, school, and place of employment (referred to as field visits) to support each youth's success and assure program compliance, and adherence to conditions of release. Field visits are random and are conducted 7 days a week, 365 days a year. Each youth's progress is reviewed weekly by the team to measure client compliance. The goal of the program is for each youth to comply with the court ordered release conditions and successfully complete the program.

Multnomah County Juvenile Services Division (JSD) is a national model site for Juvenile Detention Alternatives Initiative (JDAI). JDAI's success is dependent on having detention alternative programs such as CMP which use the least restrictive means possible to ensure youth who are pending a court process do not reoffend or fail to appear for their hearing. Without a range of alternatives to detention, Multnomah County JSD would detain significantly more youth per year.
