A Life-Long Advocate for Women, Families & Veterans, A Fighter for East County

I'm an Army veteran, mother, women's advocate, and breast cancer survivor. Advocating for our community would be my most-rewarding fight yet.

I have lived out my values in my work and in my life:

- To see that women are treated equally in the workplace,
- That veterans get the benefits they've earned, and
- Raising two children to care about those around them and this community. I want them to have every chance at success – a good education and job opportunities in East County.

That's why Basic Rights Oregon Equality PAC has green-lighted my candidacy. All these values will inform my work as a Multnomah County Commissioner:

- Living-Wage Jobs: Families are struggling to make ends meet – everyone deserves fair wages.
- Investing in Children: Help kids show up to ready to learn through early education programs and affordable, quality daycare.
- Social Services: More help for those with mental health and addiction challenges, and those facing homelessness.
- Safer Neighborhoods: Addressing threats like gangs and sex trafficking; support to help people get back on track.
- Transportation Improvements: Better roads and more sidewalks.
- Vibrant, Inclusive Community: Where all are welcome, all can succeed, making East County a better place to live.

"Amanda is an extraordinary individual whose energy and advocacy are an inspiration to all who have had the chance to work alongside her. She is a tenacious champion for those she feels are being mistreated or under-represented." Jonathan Berreth, Vocational Rehabilitation Counselor, Candidate Facebook Page 02/02/16

"Amanda is a fighter for East County." Representative Chris Gorsek, Candidate Campaign Literature, 02/27/16
