Formatted Statement

I'm running for the East Multnomah Soil and Water Conservation District board to help collectively steward healthy soil and clean water, the foundation for our community's well-being.

In Corbett, I farm regeneratively and manage a no-till vineyard on my family's land at the edge of the Columbia River Gorge. My work centers on building living soil through perennial cover cropping, minimizing compaction, and careful use of water and nutrients. I understand firsthand both the promise and the practical challenges of farming.

I hold a degree in geology from Whitman College, where I researched soil systems across the Columbia Basin. I also hold an MBA in finance from UC Davis, which prepares me to help the district manage public funds responsibly and direct them where they will have the greatest impact.

This combination of earth science, regenerative agriculture, and financial discipline would bring a practical, informed perspective to the district. In this role, I would listen to farmers, landowners, and communities across East Multnomah County, seek common ground, and ensure district resources support effective conservation and healthy soil and water for generations to come.
