Between 2000 and 2010, Oregon's prison rate increased by nearly 50% growing to 14,000 inmates with a total biennial corrections budget over $1.4 billion.

Justice Reinvestment allows the State to limit prison use and reinvest some of the avoided costs in local public safety systems.

House Bill 3194 \(2013\) Justice Reinvestment Grant Program (JRP) funds programs that assess individuals and provide a continuum of evidence and community-based sanctions, and services

Programs must reduce prison use, reduce recidivism, hold offenders accountable, and maintain public safety.
