4. Safety Update - MaryJo Andersen, Multnomah County

the meeting.

5. Transportation Safety Action Plan Workshop, Alta Planning and Design

(60 minutes) 6:30 pm

Katie Selin from Alta Planning and Design gave updates on the draft plan and strategies, which is now in Phase 3. EMCTC voted on a Vision Zero goal: to eliminate all traffic fatalities and serious injuries by 2035. Public engagement for Phase 2 (summer) showed that the top supported actions were completing gaps in sidewalks and bike lanes, seeking long-term funding for Safe Routes to School, high-visibility crosswalks, enforcing speeds with safety cameras, and street lighting. The draft plan would be out for public review the following week (mid to late October) through early November, with the final plan wrapping up in late November. The committee was asked to help promote the draft plan review and consider submitting a letter of support for the plan's adoption to the East Multnomah County Transportation Committee (EMCTC). Members were supportive of the letter of support concept.

6. Staff Updates - MaryJo Andersen, Multnomah County

(10 minutes) 7:30 pm

MaryJo Andersen gave staff updates including: a push for input on a Safer Sandy survey regarding separated bike paths or a two-way path on one side; information on the Ch'ak Ch'ak Trail ribbon cutting; and Safe Routes to School updates, including working with fewer, more focused schools and Gresham Barlow's potential interest in applying for a Safe Routes to School coordinator grant. An update on the East County Tour was also provided, noting improvements on SE 257th near Reynolds High School, curb ramps on Troutdale Road, and discussion of upcoming improvements on 223rd near Fairview Elementary School.

7. Open Share/Project Updates/Other Business - All

(5 minutes) 7:40 pm

John Russell presented photos and details from the Policymaker Ride (a nearly 20-mile loop through NE Portland and East County) that took place on the last Friday in September, which included over 120 people. The ride showcased existing infrastructure and areas for improvement, including the new Ch'ak Ch'ak Trail and Sharon Nesbitt Park Trail. Attendees included local elected officials, developers, and Multnomah County commissioners and councilors. The committee also acknowledged the volunteer appreciation event.

The next meeting date was confirmed. MaryJo Andersen and Allison Boyd will likely give an update on the draft TSAP plan review and discuss the letter of support idea with the committee
