Portland Needs Proven, Progressive Policies That Work

We need less politics and better policies to keep Portland affordable, create more high-wage jobs, and house the homeless.

Keeping Portland Affordable – I was the first candidate for mayor to propose comprehensive plans to:

- Protect tenants
- Build more middle-class housing
- Create housing for teachers, nurses, police, and firefighters

Creating High-Wage Jobs and More Opportunity – Raising the minimum wage is just a start. Our plan to support the creation of 25,000 new middle-class jobs in industries like sustainable building and clean tech means:

- More people working
- New revenue
- More opportunity for everyone

Housing the Homeless – I launched my career in public service as an overnight shelter host. A comprehensive and compassionate approach to homelessness:

- Families need housing

- Addicts need treatment
- The answer is shelter and permanent housing, not the streets and parks

Fixing our Streets and Improving Public Transit – A great city like Portland needs to:

- Fill the potholes
- Provide safe crossings and sidewalks
- Make transit work in every neighborhood

I ran for office because I was tired of political promises and backroom deals. As County Chair and Treasurer I have balanced budgets without cutting services, advanced our environmental goals, protected seniors, and helped families and kids afford college.

Slogans won't move Portland forward. My progressive and proven policies will.

- Ted Wheeler

Our campaign of proven, progressive solutions has united Portlanders from every corner of the city including former Mayors Vera Katz, Tom Potter and Sam Adams, Portland Fire Fighters, AFSCME 189, Basic Rights Oregon Equality PAC, and elected and community leaders Lew Frederick, Avel Gordly, Maria Rojo De Steffey, Wajdi Said, and Nick Fish.
